Sanwar marble—quarried in Rajasthan, India, and also known as Sawar or Fancy Brown marble—is a striking natural stone featuring a creamy white base and sweeping brown or grey veins. Its earthy neutrality makes it an exceptional, durable, and highly coveted material for bespoke tables.

Sanwar marble balances sophisticated beauty with functional tabletop performance:

- Heat Resistance: It handles hot serving dishes and warm cups much better than engineered quartz, though using trivets is still recommended.
- Hiding Imperfections: The prominent white and brown veining naturally camouflages minor scratches and everyday wear better than a pure, solid white stone.
- Versatility in Styling: The brown hues easily complement both warm and cool color palettes, fitting naturally into contemporary, industrial, or country home decor styles.
